WELCOME TO HELADA

Anyone who visits the website will see something like Figure 1.

It comprises three 'frames.'

The Banner frame ① is always the same. It's our 'signature.'

The Contents frame ② changes little if ever, only to accommodate new Issues.

The Main frame ③ changes every 2-4 weeks, to show 'next meeting' and new video links.

The Contents and Main frames have scroll bars because they both are longer than the screen. The Banner frame does not, but it does have the horizontal button bar to navigate the site.

STATIC VS INTERACTIVE

We refer to the home page and other pages linked to it as the 'static' pages of the site, because they stay mostly the same. They operate the way most websites do, and they can be read by any visitor

The 'interactive' part of the site is the Forum. The Forum is for HELADA members only. In the Forum, members can discuss issues and share articles. There's also a Members Corner where we can get acquainted, share events of personal interest, and talk about group function. Members can register or login to the Forum at the FORUM link, at the top of the Contents frame, just beside ② in the screen shot above.
